

If I require something, I will find it online or at a store. I do not need strangers calling my home throughout the night trying to sell me products and services that I do not want. At times I am doing something and have to stop to answer the phone only to have an annoying solliciter on the other end trying to sell me something I do not care for. Obviously more people feel that way that's why there is such a large number of people on the list. Those that aren't bothered by this action, they can choose to leave their names off it. As for myself, I do not want unsolicited calls.
